

ALL FOUR PROVINCES DECIDE STRONGLY AGAINST IMPORTATION OF LIQUOR

ALBERTA, NOVA SCOTIA,
MANITOBA AND SASK-ATCHEWAN ALL
MAJORITY

In no uncertain tone the electors of Alberta declared Monday against any further inter-provincial traffic in intoxicating liquors, linking themselves up in this expression of feeling with the people of Saskatchewan, Manitoba and Nova Scotia where similar majorities were registered for the prohibition cause.

Although definite final records of the vote in this province were not obtainable Tuesday owing to the difficulty in securing returns from innumerable points, the majorities tabulated indicate that the final margin in favor of prohibition will be 15,000. In 1915 the majority for the "drys" was slightly in excess of 20,500, with a total vote of 70,550.

The poll here in town ran a little close, one half of the poll giving a majority of one vote for the wets while the other half poll went by eleven thus securing a majority of ten for the dry column. There were in all five spoilt ballots at this poll.

At the poll held at J. Church's the result read 26 dries and 3 wets, while at another poll in this district the results read:

Greenhills—37 dry, 28 wet.
Ashtabula—18 dry, 6 wet.
T. P. Eds—18 dry, 7 wet.
T. P. Eds—13 dry, 10 wet.
Eds—13 dry, 5 wet.

THREE-FOURTHS ALTA THRESHING NOW COMPLETED

Threshing is now estimated by the department of Agriculture to be seventy-five per cent. done in the province as a whole. In the south it is practically completed, in the central part of the province it is from one to fifty per cent. done, and in the north, where bad weather has somewhat delayed operations, it is just beginning.

No appreciable damage has been done to the grain, according to reports thus far received, by recent rains, and the threshing returns are all showing good yields and in good condition.

The department has finally accepted the estimate of the Alberta wheat yield as made by the Dominion authorities. Its own estimate was twenty-two and one-fourth bushels to the acre, but the figures made up by the federal experts were only twenty-two and one-tenth bushels, and the latter has been accepted as the official estimate for both governments.

There was no reason, other than to reach a common basis between the two departments for changing the original figure, and it is confidently expected that when the crop is all threshed it will be found that the yield is well over twenty-two bushels.

HARVESTER JAMBED TWEEN BARN & RACK WHEN TEAM SCARED

Having finished his day's work on the farm of W. Dewar, W. L. Green, who belongs to the L. Miner threshing gang, and comes from Kinsella, was leading his team and harrow rack around the barn when something scared the team, and the harrower jammed between the rack to pin the man to the wall of the barn.

Other workers there, seeing his plight, at once rushed to his assistance and carried the unconscious man to the house where he received medical attention. He is now around again alight with a well-bandaged head.

HOME-MADE WINE

Do the housewives know that it is necessary to get the written permission of inland Revenue Department to make wine, whether grape (dandelion or other) vintage, and that if they do not do this they are leaving themselves open to a penalty of $200? Apparently not, yet the citizens are buying grapes freely. Whether one bottle or fifty, whether it is intoxicating or not, makes no difference in the eyes of the law. It is a branch of the Inland Revenue Act, and as such can be enforced by the preventive officers, with deplorable results to the wrong-doers.

ALBERTA UNIVERSITY WON BASKET BALL GAME FROM WAINWRIGHT

The girls are back from their trip to the university where they played on Saturday last for the Wilson shield which represents the provincial championship. After one of the most successful seasons ever seen in the varsity gymnasium our team was defeated 45-0. On both sides the combination was fast and perfect, but the odds were against the visitors. First they were outclassed by a straightforward play by a superior team and secondly they were helpless on the high polished floor. The varsity team are all tall and one-centred had no chance in reaching for the passes or in jumps. Again the Wainwright girls were hampered by strange combination. Nevertheless the score does not do credit to the play. The university girls admitted that their opponents at times showed superior combination, which time and again broke through the Wainwright defence, but owing to the strangeness of the baskets, our girls were unable to redeem even one free throw. The whole team played with the same gusto to the end, even though out-matched, the game never lagged for an instant, and the varsity girls agreed that the Wainwright girls are the gamiest, cleanest sports they have ever played.

The locals were royally treated by the university team. They were met at the station on Friday night and conducted through the river where a lunch was served them even though the hour was 1 a.m. After the game on Saturday evening they were escorted by the varsity team to the city hotel, where they received a great ovation, later being that team's guests at the Empire theatre. After the theatre they were the recipients of more kindness at the hotel, and even street car fares were provided.

One and all, the Wainwright team claim they have never met such clean play and such kindly consideration from team and spectators, and such open-handed hospitality as that received at the university. Principal and Mrs. C. Breunier, Miss Stanford, and the Ravens accompanied the team which was composed of the Misses Helen Aykroyd, Lorraine Fraser, Mary Scottfield, Effie Murray, Mildred Graham, Pearl Wakefield and Florence Tordy.

SUNFLOWER FED COWS GIVE MILK WITH KICK TO IT

Many a notice has been printed of the advantages of sunflowers as ensilage, but it has been left to Editor Gordon of the Ponoka Herald to hold forth the most alluring prospects of any of the sunny sunflower booster when in his last issue he says not only is the sunflower proving a successful feed, but it has other wonderful properties. Just allow it to ferment a little and the kick is right there, and besides the taste is agreeable. Of late there has been a deep hush in town—something unnamable, something unaccountable, and it might be all traced to Jas. Harris' leaking silo. That a jug can be had from sunflower juice is a fact; that being the case the plant ought to be as well developed as a tomato. Just think for a moment; fatten a two-year-old critter on sunflowers and what of the meat? Why a great bulk could be had in eating a half pound of steak; and again, the cow, oh, glorious milk. But we must not enlarge; only one thing, exterminate the plant. We have our own opinion of governments or people who grow or sow such corruption.—Market Examiner.

METHODIST CHURCH THANKSGIVING FEAST IS DECIDED SUCCESS

"An unqualified success" was the general verdict given on Saturday last by the ladies and Grace church, and to judge by the number in which the lunch of delicious candidates had everybody was thoroughly satisfied.

The three long tables were kept steadily filled with "cast-aways" and this kept the number of lady waitresses, whose service was splendid, busy from start to finish.

It would be futile to enumerate all who helped to attain such a successful issue, but it is to say that everybody worked at top pitch and their efforts realised well over $100 which were the net proceeds.

WINNIPEG TELEGRAM FAILS TO PUBLISH AFTER 27TH YEAR

After twenty-seven years of publication the Winnipeg Telegram has ceased publication. The reason given being that the costs of production have risen so tremendously.

The coming year may see other papers forced from the market through the same cause of a catastrophe if the publishing business becomes confined to a few wealthy organizations.

The local papers are having, generally throughout the West, the most strenuous time of their existence, and can only continue in business by stiffening their rates to advertisers, and to readers; and also by placing on a commercial basis much of the service previously given away as a good fellow.

AUTO RUNS OFF GRADE AT FAYAN AND TURNS TURTLE

Only by the miraculous hand of providence was a fatality averted on Thursday night last, when the car which Gas Hedlund was driving towards Wainwright ran off the grade where the road crosses the G. T. P. grade at Fayon near the Wood Wainwright farm and turned turtle into the ditch.

The driver, G. Hedlund, received a number of bruises and a badly marked face, while another man riding with him also received a number of bruises. The car was simply demolished, but after the arrival of Messrs H. Brunner, Richards, Priestley, Sorenson, Ham, and McCann, (and a couple of ladies) the machine was placed upon its proper level with very little persuasion summed its journey. Some of us'll say!

A Story From Texas

While on a hunting expedition the doctor found a nest of alligator eggs and brought six of them home. A sedate hen, and expected to do so for an indefinite number of years as most of us do, but the other morning, just to remind us that there are occasionally rifts in the sameness of the clouds, she received a letter from a firm of solicitors in England telling him he had fallen heir to a million dollars. This had been left to him by his brother.

Hair to a Million

Morning after morning Fred James, an employee in the canteen department of Wood, Vallance & Adams, a wholesale hardware firm in Calgary, had awakened to "the common round the daily task," and expected to do so for an indefinite number of years as most of us do, but the other morning, just to remind us that there are occasionally rifts in the sameness of the clouds, he received a letter from a firm of solicitors in England telling him he had fallen heir to a million dollars. This had been left to him by his brother.

Instead of holding the first meeting on October 15, it will be on October 18, and the other meetings of the itinerary will be correspondingly held back. This will not affect the Stratford meeting in East Elgin on October 12.

Fatally Injured

Miss Mary Kincaid, 22 years of age, was fatally injured by an automobile driven by George Green on the Kingsford Road, Toronto, recently. Green was held on a charge of manslaughter.

Guards Armed at Vatican

Guards at the Vatican are now armed, because of the fear of invasion by Italian mobs. Precautionary measures have been taken, it is understood because of reports that Communists planned to occupy the Lateran palace, which is the property of the Vatican. The Observator Romano, official organ of the Vatican, declared that "if the crowd is impregnated with bolshevism it cannot be expected to refrain from invasion of the Vatican premises."

Winter Mail Contract Let

The contract for mail to be let by the Dominion government for the carrying of mails between White Horse and Dawson to Daniel Coates and Otto Kastner, pioneer Dawson residents and business men. Navigation Almost at End

The cold snap in the Yukon territory came on this year, several days earlier than usual, and such ice is running in the Yukon and other streams, making navigation difficult. The steamer Selkirk struck a rock in the Stewart river near the mouth and was wrecked. The unfortunate men had a bad attack of nerves.

Napoleon Morency has been granted permission, by the Supreme Court in Montreal, to sue the City Les Compagnies for $10,000 under the Workmen's Compensation Act. Farmer Used Gun to Get Help

When C. J. Leonard, a farmer of Leulon, Man., was short of help for threshing, he endeavored to obtain it at the point of a gun, according to evidence given in the provincial court in Winnipeg recently, when Leonard appeared in answer to a charge of pointing a gun. E. Bjork, a thresher, gave testimony that when he was working for another man Leonard had emphasized his demands by pointing a gun and ordering him to come. He was found guilty and fined $10 and costs.

The widow, Marie Raymond, nineteen years of age, admitted infidelity, and said that she saw Hector Dumont, charged with the murder, strike her husband over the head with a whiskey bottle. Justice Latchford presided at the trial.

Flour Price Down

Following a further break in the wheat market recently the price of flour has dropped thirty cents a barrel in the higher grades and sixty cents in the lower. Bread prices will not be affected by the drop. Flour of the higher grades which dropped thirty cents, is the only kind used and is not enough, bakers say, to make any appreciable reduction possible.

General Reduction in Boots and Shoes

In connection with the announcement of a reduction of from ten to fifteen per cent in the price of certain lines of shoes, the manager of one of the prominent boot and shoe stores of Toronto says that he understands that the retail trade throughout Canada will make a reduction. There is no possibility, say local dealers, of returning to anything near pre-war prices, owing to the greatly increased prices of skins from which leather is obtained.

A STRONG MAN IS NEEDED IN IRELAND

IRISH PEOPLE INTERESTED
ALBERTA CROP NEWS

"What is wanted in Ireland is a strong man, remarked a prominent citizen of the southern portion of the Emerald Isle, who was in Calgary recently. 'Possibly a Cromwell, a Bradlaugh, or a Gladstone,' he added.

This information was confided to a representative of the Calgary Herald by the visitor on the understanding that his name would not be divulged. 'You see,' said he, 'things might be made pretty hot for me when I return home if I started something' on this subject.

"What is going to be the outcome of all the present trouble?" he was asked.

"I would give you $10,000 if you could tell me," was his reply. The newspaperman hastily hazarded several guesses, but needless to say this very useful little sum was not handed over.

Was in Jack-Pot

"Yes," he continued, "the country is certainly in a jack-pot of a mess at the present time. Notwithstanding that, however, there is a certain amount of prosperity in the agricultural districts. In fact, Ireland is in a better condition now in this respect than has been the case ever before in its history."

"What do you think of MacSwiney?" the visitor was asked.

"He's tough enough," he remarked, "and perhaps the way he is going on he may last until Christmas," he added.

Let me see," he said, turning to two persons present, "we have here a rancher, a bond salesman and a newspaperman. Can you guess my business?" he asked the latter individual.

"Certainly, a financier," remarked the scribe. "How much land are you buying in Western Canada?"

The guess was not far astray, evidently, but the visitor would not make any very definite statement as to this. It is learned, however, from a reliable source, that the reports of the glorious crops in Alberta this year have already been read with much interest in Ireland, and it would not be a surprising matter if, within the next few days the Irish visitor will become the purchaser of an Alberta farm.

Tractor Turns Turtle—Injures Lad

Kroner Lees, age thirteen, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Lees of the Percy district, was seriously injured recently while driving a tractor. The tractor became stuck in the sand and turned turtle. The boy was thrown off and pinned down and when released had to be taken to Kibbey to get the train for Regina hospital. His mother and Nurse Lawford accompanied him and he was admitted to the General Hospital suffering from a broken hip and internal injuries. Although his condition is at present precarious, there is hope of recovery.

500 Men Idle

There is no change in the mine strike in Alberta. There are still about 500 men idle in the sand and although the One Big Union officials claim there are over 1,000 idle. At the P.A. mines conditions are 'quiet' but the absence of wind has somewhat the seriousness of the situation. It was estimated that an area of more than 10,000 acres had been swept in the vicinity.

Forest Fires in Wisconsin

Forest fires in the north and northeast of Merillan have been raging in Wisconsin for some days. The fire was spread through the second growth timber, but the absence of wind has somewhat the seriousness of the situation. It was estimated that an area of more than 10,000 acres had been swept in the vicinity.

Farmers Planning Campaign

The United Farmers of Manitoba have planned a big drive to open Premier I. A. Smith's candidates in every constituency will be able to secure the financial backing and sympathy necessary to win victories. Hon. T. A. Cregar urged a clear-sighted and sound progress towards complete organization of force which, he said, stood for a square deal and equal standing. Efforts are being made to link up the French and Ruthenian districts in the province.

Committed Suicide

Mrs. Anna Schwartz, fifty-six years old, when a little girl for a year in New York, in which she and her husband and son could live, hanged herself in a room at 148 Beach, 93rd St., Rockaway, Queens.

Indiana Flourishes

The meeting of winter finds Canada's Indians in a prosperous condition, well provided with food and money, according to D. C. Scott, the deputy superintendent of the Indians of the north, who has just returned from a visit to several reserves in British Columbia and the prairie provinces. The Indian farmers in the west have all had good crops this year and those who make their living by fishing and hunting profit by the high prices of fur last winter to such an extent that they are not worshipping at the foot of lower prices this year.

Fine Crop Yield

H. J. Russell, who is inspector for the Rural and Erie Mortgage Company, has returned from a trip through the Alliance and Killam districts in Alberta in which he learned that conditions are most satisfactory throughout the province. Mr. Russell visited one farm of 1,250 acres and found that the wheat was doing well. He has been threshed this fall no less than 28,000 bushels of wheat, 5,000 bushels of oats and 2,000 bushels of flax. At present prices for these grains, the wheat would bring $45,980, the oats $2,500, and flax $5,500, a total value of $53,980 for the crop. This is equivalent to $52.79 per acre. With this record it should not be hard to convince prospective settlers of the sound basis for the claims that central Alberta offers agricultural advantages not surpassed, if indeed they can be equalled, anywhere. Mr. Russell also reports having spoken to a farmer who had threshed 1,106 bushels of oats from 11 acres.

Army and Navy Veterans Confer

A number of delegates from all parts of Canada, including members of the ladies' auxiliaries, are in Regina just now for the provincial and Dominion conventions of the Army and Navy Veterans' Association this week. Re-establishment problems, fisheries, qualifications, and the case of disabled subjects, are coming up as the most prominent subjects before the convention.

"Bread Upon the Waters"

Recently a Methodist minister, who was attending a conference at Green Bay, Wis., received a pleasant surprise when called to the office of a business man who said: "Sixteen years ago you married me and you did a good job. I was poor then and could only give you $5.00, here is the balance," and he handed the astonished minister a two-dollar bill.

Saskatoon Star Changes Hands

It is reported that a very important newspaper deal is almost on the point of consummation. It is said that Sir Clifford Sifton who owns the Winnipeg Free Press and interests associated with him, have acquired from W. F. Herman the Saskatoon Star. Mr. Herman, who, over a year ago, established the Border Cities Star in Windsor, Ont., and has recently established there the Border Cities Sun as a morning paper, has, it is reported, acquired options on newspaper properties in Hamilton and Toronto. If the present deal goes through, therefore, Mr. Herman will in future concentrate his activities in Ontario. Until recently he was owner of the Post, Regina, but disposed of that interest a few weeks ago. He has for several years been proprietor and publisher of the Saskatoon Star.

Present to Government

Colonel Sir Arthur Hamilton Lee, first baron of Farham who recently offered his magnificent country home at Aylesbury, Bucks, England, to the British nation as an official residence for the premier, has altered the terms of the gift so that it will be immediately turned over to the government.

Touring on Behalf of Blind

L. M. Wood and Capt. A. E. Baker, M.C., Croix de Guerre, of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, who are making a tour of the west in the interests of the institute, have left Winnipeg for Saskatchewan. Great interest has been aroused in the work of the blind throughout the addresses delivered by them before clubs and other organizations in Winnipeg. Next week Mr. Wood and Capt. Baker give addresses at Saskatoon and Regina, after which they are proceeding to British Columbia.

PORTRAIT REVEALS NATURE OF ILLNESS

Notes—A portrait of a lady by J. S. Sargent, R.A., recently revealed to physicians who examined it the real nature of the subject's illness, which had baffled them. Mr. Augustus John, whose remarkable portraits are a distinctive feature of English art of today, was asked to describe the qualities that enable artists to see in faces many things that ordinary people miss).

A great painter sees clearly and deeply, and with emotion, and is excited by aspects of nature which may leave other people quite indifferent. This factor of excitement is quite indispensable.

Those who like a cold mechanical statement of facts don't know what art means. Strangely enough the same people will go crazy over some sentimental imbecility false alike to art and nature.

Others will say of a picture that it "points a moral or adorns a tale." It may do both incidentally but these are secondary functions of painting, the first being always the emotional expression of pure vision.

It is not the business of a painter to consciously to diagnose the character and constitution of his sitters. His eyes do that for him and the result is not a medical diagram, but a fusion of his own mentality with that of his 'subject.'

Complete understanding tends to identity, and the artist becomes 'attuned' with the thing he paints. This does not often take place the conditions being hard and rarely present itself. Hence we see so often the works of the best painters fall short of perfection.

But the failures of genius have infinitely more merit and adorn a tale. This does not often take place the conditions being hard and rarely present itself. Hence we see so often the works of the best painters fall short of perfection.

Terrible Collision Near Paris

Forty-two persons were killed and 100 injured recently when the Paris and Nantes express ran into a freight train at the Paris suburban station of Houilles. Most of the victims were workmen.

Girls in Stores Paid $8 a Week

Mrs. Carson, representing the employees before the session of the Minimum Wage Board in Calgary, made charges of exploitation of labor when she said that girls had been kept at the same work for months at a wage of $8.00 per week. One budget was presented by the Women's Labor League, estimating the minimum necessary for a working girl at $21.49. Other budgets will be presented during the week estimating the minimum at about $17, which is in line with estimates submitted at Medicine Hat and Lethbridge. It was urged that it was advisable that there should be a period of apprenticeship for millinery and dressmaking for six months without pay. Girls often spoiled more goods than they were worth during the learning period and by having to pay a minimum wage, these businesses were losing out.

Thresher Arrested

Constable H. G. French arrested John C. Galbraith on Saturday, charged with inflicting grievous bodily harm on the person of William Chesterton. The two men had been employed in hauling sheaves for a threshing gang on the Stanley farm, got into an altercation, as a result of which Galbraith broke a pitchfork over Chesterton's head and struck him with a club. The victim who was seriously bruised about the head and arm was conveyed to his home in a car by Dr. French. Galbraith was re-arrested on $150 bail.

Intimate Little Tales

SOME EXPERIENCES OF HUMAN INTEREST UNDER-GONE IN EVERY-DAY LIFE BY EVERY-DAY PEOPLE

THE FIRST EUROPEAN FAMILY IN CANADA—A BRAVE CANADIAN GIRL AND HER LOVER—TRAGEDY IN THE WILDS—A SAIL AT LAST.

In an old French castle, something during the sixteenth century there lived the Sieur de Roberval and his beautiful niece Marguerite. Marguerite was a brave, high-spirited girl and had been brought up in the careful manner of young French girls, educated in a quiet convent, and from this convent she came to her uncle's little court, where she took her place in all the gaieties and festivities usual in the homes of the French nobility of that time. Marguerite delighted in hunting and could use a gun almost as well as a cavalier.

The Sieur de Roberval was appointed by King Francis the first, Viceroy of Canada, and when he was able to follow Cartier, the discovered of these unexplored regions, he took with him his lovely niece, she being a favorite with him because of her courage and daring.

There was, however, among the young cavaliers of France, one who loved Marguerite and she returned his love. As he was too poor to marry he did not dare to ask Roberval for her, but when he found she was to accompany her uncle across the sea, he resolved to go too and volunteered to join the viceroy's party. They set sail and during the long voyage Roberval discovered the secret of the lovers and was very angry, but he considered them both as he had other and more brilliant plans for his beautiful niece. He was so angry that he planned a terrible punishment for her. Indeed it is hard to realize how a man with a spark of humanity in his nature, never to speak of natural affection, could have thought of it.

Near the bleak shore of Newfoundland there is a lone island and it was called the Isle of Demons, as it was said to be haunted by moans could be heard through the wind and the waves on that rock. Here it was that Roberval, turning a deaf ear to prayers and pleadings, landed the young and tender maiden with the old nurse who attended her and four guns as a means of defence from their enemies and of procuring necessary food.

Marguerite's lover in despair at seeing her thus left to such a fate, threw himself into the sea with his two guns and some ammunition, and being a strong swimmer safely reached the shore. The lovers were then left in that terrible wilderness to their own resources. With sinking hearts they watched the sails of the ship which had brought them hence disappear 'neath the horizon, hoping, but in vain, that the hard-hearted viceroy might relent and return. It was summer time, although even the summers are not very warm in those northern latitudes, but the days were long; the wild fowl were abundant and beasts and other animals were occasionally shot. Marguerite and her lover contrived thus, to procure food as well as to secure a supply of skins for the winter.

They built as good a shelter as they could from poles and interwoven branches as they did not know how long their exile was to be, and this was the first European home of which history tells us, in Canada. Sad and ill-fated little home! No doubt when the first shock of finding themselves in such a situation was over, Marguerite and her husband, being young and gay, and full of life, laughed over their adventures and made the best of them. No doubt for a time the rosy spectacles of love lent a bright hue to all the undertakings and love loomed very high in their hearts that their trials were but temporary. Often they sang gay sketches of French songs, but in time the wildness and the solitude told upon their spirits and they sang no more, and as the shadows of evening fell upon them, and the storm howled about them, they remembered the old stories of the demons with which the place was said to be haunted by the trembled with superstitious fears.

Sometimes bears and other wild hungry animals crashed through the brushwood and tried to break their shelter, and Marguerite would shudder and become pale and cling closely to the lover for whom she had been cast there.

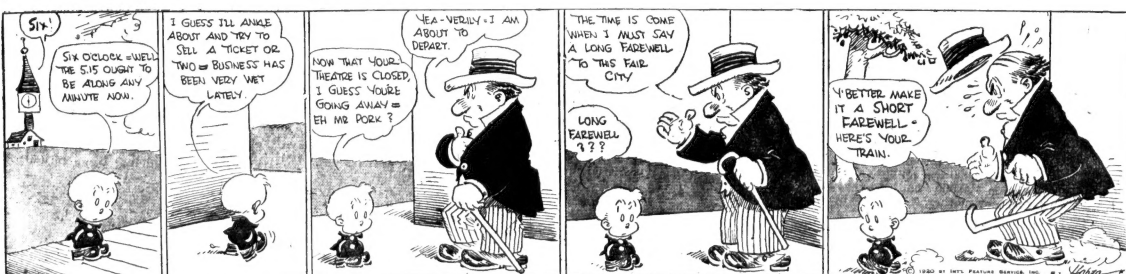

In time a little child was born to Marguerite. A rude spot in the babe and a sorry welcome for the little victim of the viceroy's decree. Indeed but weighed the more heavily on the spirits of the young cavalier and his heart broke as he saw his wife deprived of all the comforts which she should have had, battling for her life and that of her innocent child. By degrees his health gave way before his gloomy despair and he became a prey to disease. Marguerite soon had to look her last on his cold form, feeling that her only human stay was gone. The little spirit which had selected such an unhappy spot soon winged its flight after its father, and then Marguerite's old nurse died and she was quite alone. Marguerite must have had a wonderful strength of mind and constitution as she still lived on after all these tragic happenings, procuring food with her spear and bow, and her old clothing with the skins of the beasts she shot.

Marguerite's times were in the dead of night during the storms that were very frequent when, in the solitude she could imagine she heard fiendish laughter and that malicious spirits were pursuing her. With wonderful control she would mutter prayers for protection, putting her trust in God. Sometimes when the bitter winds raved about the island she would pile on her fire all the wood she could collect and in her fur cloak she would sink into sleep. She often lost the sense of her misery in dreams of beautiful France and her old paternal home, and then would awake to find herself alone in that barren wilderness.

Two summers passed and the third winter was almost upon Marguerite when one day, as she scanned the horizon, a sail appeared in the distance. This had happened before, but the sail had almost immediately disappeared just to make her heart-sick with disappointment. This time, however, she piled on her fire all the wood she could collect and in her fur cloak she would sink into sleep. She often lost the sense of her misery in dreams of beautiful France and her old paternal home, and then would awake to find herself alone in that barren wilderness.

After such a strange exile Marguerite reached her home and native land where she was greeted by friends who tried to make up to her for the sorrows she had suffered, and to blot out her many sad memories. In later years her strange adventures became to her almost like the story of a troubled dream, but as long as she lived she had many wonderful incidents to tell of her life on the desolate island.

Rains Have Been Helpful

Hugh McKellar, secretary of the Mount Allison Agricultural Society, who has just returned from a trip to Winnipeg states that there is every reason to believe that 90 per cent of the threshing work would be done by the end of the week. He also said that owing to the rains that had been experienced since cutting, a very luxuriant growth has taken place on stubble which would give large quantities of feed for livestock so that the time they went into winter quarters they should be in the best of condition.

A FEW RAMBLING REMARKS
BY A PRAIRIE WOMAN

Even in a world of such terrible happenings as ours, we have been startled recently by the tragic occurrence of the death of a young actress—a movie actress, under suspicious circumstances which pointed either to foul play or suicide—at a time when she should have been in the hey-day of care-free happiness and youth. Supposedly talented, a young bride, with unlimited money, health and beauty it would seem that she was specially favored of the gods, and yet what a terrible ending! There is not a mother among us who would not face death gladly rather than see the child whom we have guarded so lovingly day after day, die under such ghastly circumstances. The story tells us that the young girl and her party in a mad rush for pleasure had been whirling from one gaiety to another, until drunk and satiated she and her young husband had turned into their rooms tired and dishevelled—then the sudden aftermath!

What seems so pitifully sad to me in the story is that she, her body was taken to the church alone. All the gay friends who had been bright and companionable enough, no doubt, when she was alive and happy, had little interest in her when she was called to face the last great summons; they dared not face the dignity and majesty of death! Poor child, and poorer mother who bore her!

It is some fatality such as this which occasionally brings us to a sense of the futility and superficiality of the mad rush for pleasure in which so many are engaging in these days. Many a hard-working woman, striving to make ends meet for her growing family, no doubt reads wonderingly, perhaps a trifle enviously of some movie star whose salary runs into millions; whose dresses and jewels are worth a king's ransom, she thinks. "How happy she must be!" The story just recounted is one sample of the happiness that must be built on a sterner foundation than that which is found in movieland, to make for true happiness. Mere physical beauty, and mere money never made a human soul happy yet! It satisfies and pleases the material as in a fleeting span, but it leaves ashes in its wake. If it were not for the souls within us, it might not be so, and millions are vainly endeavoring to find what they think is happiness by degrading the body within which they cry for something higher and deeper than the music of the cafes; the lights of the dance hall and the jazz of the band. That is all dress and will be found to be so in the final reckoning.

The story of the poor little actress whose cup of pleasure had such bitter dregs impels me to think of her mother, and in thinking of her mother, of all the mothers in the world who desire what is best for their children, but so many of them are unwise in their choice of what is best. For instance, it is not always the marriage that starts out with the largest wedding announcements and the most show that is the forerunner of the happiest and most useful life. Sometimes the marriages that are the most truly happy and successful, whose success runs on into succeeding generations, have the most humble beginnings, but they are built on a solid foundation of truth and righteousness, and not on a mere desire to please self and outdo the neighbors!

And so it behooves each mother, while she is endeavoring to develop the best and highest in the capabilities of that daughter of whom she is proud, to look a little deeper and instill into the root of her character the seed of uprightness and honor which will not be moved by such passing things of fashion, and endeavor to train her that she may be well poised and well balanced mentally so that she will be clear-sighted enough to reject the dross and retain the gold; to stand firmly to what she knows to be right, in whatever circumstances in life she may be placed; to remember that the life which looks the most enviable and the most attractive is often the saddest life in the world!

As promised on this page, I am giving you the pattern for the knitted garment. I may say that I have used each pattern appearing here and have found them very satisfactory, and trust you will do the same. As I have said to you each week, I shall be very glad to have letters from any of our readers who would care to write to me at the following address, "Prairie Woman," 903 McCullum-Hill Building, Regina, Sask.

PURITY - QUALITY - ECONOMY

With the increased cost of labor and materials due to war conditions, it is not reasonable to suppose that a really first class baking powder can be made and sold at the old prices. Rather than sacrifice the quality of

MAGIC BAKING POWDER

we found it necessary to make slight increases in price during the war period. Even though Magic Baking Powder may cost a few cents more than the ordinary kinds it is still by far the most economical baking powder on the market to-day when purity, strength and leavening qualities are taken into consideration.

CANADA'S FIELD CROP

The total field crops of Canada will this year reach nearly 1,250,000,000 bushels, while the products of hay and corn will exceed 25,000,000 tons, as compared with over 1,000,000,000 bushels of grain and 20,000,000 tons of hay and corn in 1919, according to official figures compiled by J. Bruce Walker, director of publicity for the department of immigration and colonization.

It is estimated that the price of 1920 wheat will average $2.00 per bushel, said Mr. Walker. The field crops of Canada represent about $170 per head of the population as compared with $110 per head in the United States.

The records also show that several extremist papers and trade unions in various countries are receiving Bolshevik gold subsidies monthly. Two Copenhagen unions are receiving 50,000 kroner annually. The documents reveal that Lenin ordered every Russian citizen to relinquish all Jewish claims during September, a systematic search was made of all bourgeois houses.

Eat Cats and Dogs

Trans-Atlantic News states: "A large proportion of the people of Bolshevik Russia is reduced to a diet of dogs and cats," says Albert Chase, of Lowell, Mass., an officer of the United States cruiser Frederick, who has just reached London after spending a long time in Petrograd and Moscow.

He sums up the situation by saying: "Bolshevik Russia is a terrible condition."

The railways are in a woful state of lack of repair. I believe they are willing to make great sacrifices in order to get rolling stock and other necessities from Europe and Canada."

Reds Lose Kharkov

Kharkov, an important city in southern Russia, 250 miles north of the Sea of Azov, has been captured by anti-Bolshevik forces commanded by Gen. Baron Wrangel.

The capture of this city, together with the advance of Polish and Ukrainian forces west of Kiev, is considered here as having imperilled the communications of Russian soviet troops in the vicinity of Nikolaiev, near Odessa.

HEREDITY INFLUENCES COLOR OF BABY'S EYES

A curious light on the influence of heredity on the color of babies' eyes has been shown by the investigations of Dr. H. Bryn in Norway.

After examining 834 persons he found, says the British Medical Journal, that when all the parents and grandparents had blue eyes the children were blue eyed, but if both parents' eyes were blue, while some of the grandparents eyes were brown, only 90 out of 100 of the children had blue eyes.

If both parents had brown eyes, only 75 per cent. of the children had eyes of the same color, the remaining 25 per cent. being blue. If one parent was blue eyed and the other brown eyed, blue and brown eyes were equally divided among their children.

She entered the store and complained about a lamp she had purchased, demanding that it be taken back.

"That's the matter with it, madam?"

"It has all the faults of my husband with none of his virtues."

"Please explain yourself."

THE AURORA BOREALIS

"Almost any evening when the sky is clear, the eye is once attracted by the shifting bands and areas of light which chase each other across the northern and eastern sky. These lights are variously described as Aurora Polaris, Aurora Borealis and Aurora Australis, or in plain English Northern Lights.

These fleeting, shifting screens and curtains of light besides catching the eye attract one's curiosity as to their cause and the reasons for the various forms they take. If they are examined over a series of evenings they are found to assume various forms. For example soon after the sun sets the lights often appear in the form of rainbow-shaped arcs with streamers of light shooting upwards from the arc. One would almost think that the form of the earth was reflected in fire in the sky.

Then they appear in the form of bands, rays and sometimes like curtains. These forms are quite common. The perfect and least common, though no doubt the most striking form of aurora is the Corona. This is a sort of crown of light surrounding a comparatively or wholly dark centre. The rays may lie very close together or may be widely separated from one another.

Most of these shifting forms of the aurora are readily seen—only, however, in the higher latitudes from which they derive their name of Northern lights; the further south one travels the less frequently is the aurora seen. As a rule also they appear shortly after sunset and disappear not much later than midnight at the latest.

It is generally believed that the aurora represents some form of electrical discharge and that the aurora lines arise from atmospheric gases. Some observers say that when the aurora comes close to the earth and the air is still that a sound like the swishing of a whip is produced. This is quite conceivable if the aurora really be a form of electrical discharge. The sun is considered to be responsible for this electric condition of the atmosphere, which would no doubt account for the fact that the aurora becomes less distinct as the midnight hours approach.

A RAY OF HUMAN SUNSHINE

One of the organizations which abundantly proved its value during the war was the Red Cross. The fact that accidents, epidemics of disease and kindred scourges, do not cease when war ceases led the meeting of the Red Cross recently held at Geneva to come to the decision that the organization should be maintained as an active organization in times of peace as well as war. This means that in every locality where during the war the Red Cross was active it will continue to give assistance where the need arises; and that each year a local organization will have to be made. This applies to Wainwright. Here during the war there was an active, aggressive Red Cross Society which did splendid work for the very beginning until the last gun of the war was fired.

During the Great War the nations of the world were divided into two formidable groups. The thoughts and feelings of men then found clearly defined channels through which to win victory for their respective sides, each of which strove for domination. In nations where military operations are ended great masses of men and women, released from the tension of war, have given way to their feelings of unrest and general disturbance has resulted. Man's hand is against the fellowman, class against class, capital against labor, henchmen against master, all seemingly engaged in a selfish struggle.

But in the midst of the dark turmoil one brilliant ray of human kindness beams. The League of Red Cross Societies, some thirty nations strong, has undertaken the beneficent task trying to prevent typhus from breaking loose on the world and to relieve the want and suffering of the millions of orphan children of Europe. These, though innocent of the causes of the war, have been the greatest sufferers from its results. Ten millions of them are fatherless, and of that number a large proportion have lost both parents. When it is remembered that during the years of war a great number of these children have been insufficiently nourished, it can be partly realized how great a task confronts the League of Red Cross Societies in its endeavor to repair the damage done by the sad years of war. At present the great tasks of helping the children and of stamping out devastating disease, which is now ravaging the poorer populations of Europe, have been but begun. The British Empire will undertake a large share in this humane work, and under the patronage of His Majesty the King a relief fund has been started for which an appeal will be made throughout the Empire.

In Canada the arrangements for the receipt of contributions to the Fund during Armistice Week are being made by the Canadian Red Cross. Each Provincial Division will have charge of the organization in its own territory and will cover every locality through its local branches. All who are interested in this great work should get in touch with their local branch of the Canadian Red Cross; if no local branch exists, with the Provincial Executive at its own headquarters. All funds donated for this purpose will be ultimately forwarded to the Canadian Red Cross Headquarters, and afterwards, administered by the British Empire Relief Fund in co-operation with the League of Red Cross Societies. Contributions may be earmarked for a particular country, territory, or object, such as the relief of children.

EDMONTON HOME TAKEN OVER BY RED X

The Children's Home established in Edmonton by the next-of-kin Association of that city, and admirably conducted by the Association for a lengthy period, has been taken over by the Alberta Division of the Canadian Red Cross Society. About forty children are now in residence at the Home. Mrs. Evans, Chairman of the management Committee, will continue in that office, and the members of the Next-of-kin Association will co-operate with the Red Cross in the management of the Home.

The function of the Association is now gradually drawing to a close, and in view of the fact that the Red Cross Society has been organized for permanent peace-time work in the Province, and has already undertaken the establishment of Hospitals, Children's Homes, and similar institutions in Alberta, members of the Next-of-kin Association decided upon the course which has now been taken. The Home is similar to the Children's Home at Brickman, near Calgary which was taken over from the Great War Veterans' Association by the Red Cross, some time ago.

ECHOES OF PRESS ASSOCIATION

The following is the story as published in "Canada" re the recent visit of the Imperial Press Association to Wainwright.

From Edmonton we travelled eastward—through a long stretch of rolling land, with rich grass, and frequent bluffs of poplar and other trees—to Wainwright, a go-ahead little town of 1,200 inhabitants, the centre of a good ranching and mixed farming district. We saw something of the conditions under which this farming is carried on by calling on some of the farmers in the neighbourhood of Wainwright. One of these was Mr. Harry Mabey, an old rancher, who has turned to mixed farming, and who, besides having 800 acres under crop, specializes in horses and Aberdeen Angus cattle. Another, Mr. Richard Aykroyd, proved an old acquaintance, having been over in London for the Festival of the Empire in 1911 in connection with the G. T. P. immigration campaign. On his 1,200 acres he not only grows good crops, but keeps some nice Herefords. He is paying special attention to the growing of trees for wind screens and other purposes. We also called on Mr. S. Brassard, one of a number of French-Canadian farmers, who have recently found their way into the neighbourhood from Quebec. The crops in the district this season are the best for four years.

Next we motored over the virgin prairie to the Buffalo Park just outside Wainwright—said to be not only the greatest wild animal conservation park, but the largest fenced area in the world—extending to over 160 square miles and having more than 100 miles of fencing. In our honor, a large herd of buffalo, another of elk and some horses, were rounded up. The nucleus of the collection of buffalo was the herd of 631 purchased from Michael Pardo, of Montana, in 1907, for $250 per head. To day it numbers nearly 3,000 head.

For several years experiments have been carried on at the Park in the production from hybrids obtained by the crossing of the buffalo and domestic cattle, of an animal called the caribou. This animal is held to provide a hide which is at once pliable, durable and warm, and meat which, though not exactly choice, is superior to much produced in the northern part of the Prairie Provinces, to be particularly robust, and to be a splendid gazzer. The whole experiment, which is yet in its initial stages, is declared by the Director of Park animals to hold promise of every considerable economic value, especially for that part of Canada including the sub-Arctic forests and the ranges of the barren lands immediately to the north. The good people of Wainwright not only extended to us hospitality at the hands of the local L. O. D. E., but presented us with some palatable wild duck—the product of the first day of the season—for our dinner on the trains.

Considerable interest is being taken locally in recent discoveries of oil and natural gas south of the Prairie Provinces, of which something is likely to be heard in the Mother Country before very long.

SOME CHRONICLES OF THE DAYS OF THE WAR
PARTY AND THE BUFFALO
STORIES TOLD AROUND THE FIRES OF THE HUNTING CAMPS OF BYGONE DAYS

THE SOUTH AFRICAN CONSTABULARY—HANDLING CHINESE COOLIES—THE MAD MISSIONARY—A TERRIBLE RIDE WITH A MADMAN TO FORT SASKATCHEWAN—CONSTABLE PEDLEY.

During the South African war the daring and efficiency of the officers and men of the North West Mounted Police who saw service overseas so impressed the imperial authorities that when it was considered advisable to form the South African Constabulary, the organization was patterned upon that of the Canadian force. Col. Sam Steele, who was in command of Strathcona's Horse, was given charge of the work. He was granted leave of absence by the Canadian Minister of Militia and sailed for South Africa. He took with him one or two of the commissioned officers of the Mounted Police, and his work on the veldt was beyond praise.

Animosity to British

At that time there was still a good deal of smouldering animosity towards the British on the part of the Boers and the work was by no means easy. Colonel Steele performed his duties with tact and moderation and won golden emblems from the people of South Africa. When Colonel Steele took charge of his work, hostilities were still going on. Very shortly afterwards peace was declared. In his reminiscences he tells how during the peace negotiations he met such men as Generals Botha, Delarue and De Wet and found them very able and patriotic men. One of the chief duties of the constabulary was to keep peace between the Boers and Kaffirs. The natives of the Transvaal were reported to have always been very arrogant towards the Kaffirs and other black people with whom they came in contact. At the close of hostilities the Kaffirs adopted an insulting attitude towards them. They had formed the impression that the British were hostile towards the Boers as they had been in arms against them and it was a difficult task to persuade the blacks to treat the bachelors and their families with respect. One of Colonel Steele's ablest assistants in South Africa was Captain Hillman whom many old timers will remember as a sergeant at depot division in Regina. He did excellent work in South Africa and during the recent war served in France and Flanders as a Brigadier General where he won many laurels for himself.

Notable Men

Colonel Steele, during his experience in South Africa met a large number of notable men. During the first days of his constabulary work he was under the direction of the late Lord Kit-Chener and afterwards the Major-General Baden-Powell. He met the late Rt. Hon. Joseph Chamberlain on the occasion of his visit to South Africa and the men under his command furnished an escort for the funeral of Paul Kruger, the former president of the Transvaal Republic, who was buried in Pretoria with great pomp and circumstance.

Chinese Freebooters

While Colonel Steele was in South Africa, he had to deal with the situation arising out of the employment of many Chinese coolies in the mines on the Rand. Some of these Chinamen were of the lowest coolie class and escaping from the bounds where they were concentrated some of them degenerated into robbers and freebooters. At one time there were large parties of Chinese wandering about the country attacking isolated houses and murdering and robbing those who resisted them. About the end of 1905 this menace became so serious that a number of farmers were leaving their places on account of the danger. It was estimated at one time that there were some thousands of these Chinese freebooters at large.

Able Administrator

Col. Steele handled this situation splendidly. He established a cordon of posts which soon resulted in the rounding up of the freebooters and perfected an organization that speedily restored law and order. Chinese laborers were all placed under police supervision; an account of all coolie laborers was made each day and absentees reported at once. Eventually the whole of the wandering Chinamen were captured; the robbers and murderers brought to justice and the condition of lawlessness came to an end.

Returns to Canada

On his return to Canada, after completing his work in South Africa, he was given command of M.D. 13, headquarters at Calgary. He was subsequently transferred to Winnipeg, where he occupied a similar position, and where he was ably assisted by Captain, now Brigadier General Ketchen, who had, as a very young man, held a commission in a British regiment and afterwards served in the ranks of the N.W.M.P. in the Saskatchewan country.

A Fearful Ride

There is one remarkable incident which typifies well the devotion to duty of the men of the N.W.M.P. which occurred in 1904. Constable Pedley was stationed at Fort Chippewyan in the far north. It was, at one time made a Hudson Bay Post and was the receiving place for explorers such as Alexander McKenzie, Sir John Franklin, Drs. Richardson and Rae.

A Mad Missionary

Word was brought to Constable Pedley that a Presbyterian missionary to the Indians had been so depressed by the loneliness and solitude that he had gone mad as some remote point in the woods. Pedley was sent out to bring the afflicted man in. It was winter and bitterly cold. The trooper set out by dog team and after an arduous trip reached the shack where he found the missionary, who had by this time become a raving maniac, in the charge of a half-breed.

Strapped to Dog Sleigh

The poor lunatic was strapped

ped to a dog sleigh and taken down to Chippewyan. It was necessary for the missionary to have treatment at once and Pedley was sent with him on the long, long trip to civilization at Edmonton.

Five Hundred Miles

The distance from Fort Chippewyan to Fort Saskatchewan near Edmonton, was over 500 miles, but nothing daunted, Pedley undertook the commission. The unfortunate missionary was wrapped in furs, put into a sleeping bag and strapped down to a sleigh. Pedley, on his snowshoes, ran alongside drawing the dog team. The trail taken followed the course at Athabasca, and shortly after leaving Fort Chippewyan, the travellers came into a series of blizzards of an intensity seldom experienced even in that Arctic region. The temperature during the trip ranged from 20 to 50 degrees below zero. The madman refused to eat, and in addition to his other duties Pedley was forced to attend to him and see that he consumed enough of the rude fare to sustain life in him.

The Madman Escaped

One day, with the strength of madness, the missionary broke the strap that bound him to the sleigh and ran shouting to the woods. Pedley chased him, and by great efforts succeeded in coming up with him. Then a struggle ensued in that lonely, sombre place. At length the policeman succeeded in reducing him to submission. Hardly had he got him back to the sleigh when a terrible snow storm burst upon them. Progress was out of the question and the blizzard was so bitter it was all but impossible to make camp. Mr. Pedley placed the missionary in his sleeping bag, got into one himself and then for fear his prisoner might escape, bound themselves together with rawhide cords.

FARMING AMONG THE INDIANS—"ACIN THE GOVERNMENT"—"SI MPLE FARMING"—"N REALITY"—"POINTED CAP" AND HIS GREAT AGE.

By Totose Apwe

(All rights reserved)

My first duty among the Indians was to sow a bag of wheat in the spring of 1884, on a garden patch (farmlands) near Katch Assin.

This man and his brother, Kee-waydin, "The North Wind," were the only members of Star Blankets band who made anything like an honest effort to earn a livelihood by cultivation of the soil.

A Few Wives

The chief himself did not take kindly to farming, but content that his three wives should supplement the semi-weekly issue of government rations by toiling on the white man's woodpile in the winter and snoring gobs for home consumption in the summer.

The Leading Families

The treaty had been signed on behalf of these Indians by the famous "Red Chief," "Reddy Boy." His death occurring shortly after coming to the reservation, his oldest son, Star Blanket, was appointed chief, with four headmen in his council. These were his two brothers, Ohoo and Powasson, (each of whom indulged in the luxury of two wives), his brother-in-law, Skitch-e-a-wahs, his wife was married to three of the chief's sisters, and Sakituy, or "Coming Over The Hill," who also counted three wives among his possessions. Owing to his great age he was exempt from work.

The two brothers, Ohoo and Powasson, were successful hunters, so that their families lived in comparative comfort, if not affluence. It was difficult at times to resist the impression that there must be a strain of Irish blood in these men's veins, for the reason that in all their talks with the agent or the farm instructor, they were always "agin the government."

A Peacemaker

The only single exception was "Sakituy," a harmless old medi-

Forty-eight Hours in a Blizzard

In this condition they remained for forty-eight hours until the blizzard had passed. There was a rest at Fort McMurray for two days and then the journey was continued. Once again on the journey the madman escaped and another pursuit and struggle ensued in the bitter winter weather. A team of horses was obtained at Lac la Biche and without much further adventure Constable Pedley delivered his unfortunate charge over to the police authorities at Fort Saskatchewan, on January 7. The madman had his feet badly frozen and exposure to cold had caused paralysis of the tongue, which prevented him from speaking.

Completely Cured

He was well treated by the police doctors and before long was discharged as completely cured, both in mind and body. The dreadful experience, however, had told upon the constable. On the return journey he broke down and was obliged to stop at a hotel in Regina. Such is the work that was done by the members of this remarkable force and such are the men who engaged in it.

Returned to England

He was granted leave of absence and returned to England to recuperate, but the West had its lure for him and he came back to the North West Mounted Police, and is still employed at headquarters in Regina. Such is the work that was done by the members of this remarkable force and such are the men who engaged in it.

astotin" we have literally "Hath."

The remarkable facility with which the Cree language lends itself to elisions and abbreviations, readily accounts for the corruption of this hybrid into "Chepo-Stotin."

This Indian "from time immemorial" through winter's cold and summer's heat, wore this form of headgear attached to his coat, both being made from the same "blanket" material.

My aged friend once explained to me, in reply to my query that his reason for adopting this peculiar garb was simply a desire to imitate the toga of the Meis people, among whom he had many good friends, because in the long days of the Hudson's Bay Company regime, all well-to-do men among the half-breeds wore a coat made of pilot cloth with a collar attached in the form of a pointed cap which the Indian, quick to adopt a word from another language, called a chepau. This cap was allowed to hang across the shoulders in mild weather and was pulled closely about the head and ears when protection from cold was necessary.

Had Lived Twelve Decades

I first knew Pointed Cap in 1884, thirty-six years ago. He was then a gray-haired old man and used a stick as an aid in walking. At that time I endeavored to learn his age not only from himself but from the oldest Indians then living on the Reserve. With the reticence so peculiar to the Indians, when certain subjects are mentioned, they invariably told me "Namoya Neya-Skaytin" (I don't know). From the younger men of the bands, whose ages ranged at that time from twenty-five to forty years, it was found that as long back as they could remember, Pointed Cap had always been an old man. Seeing then that he was far advanced in years, say sixty-five winters ago, I have no doubt that at the time of his death in 1917, he had passed his one hundred and twentieth milestone.

A Youthful Centenarian

It is recalled that in the summer of 1900 this same Pointed Cap, unto himself wife number four, The happy couple, comfortably ensconced in a chariot whose wheels emitted the usual creaks and groans, spent their honeymoon wandering through the populous centres of Lethbridge, Pelly and neighboring towns—the bride occasionally cutting wood and performing other light tasks for the settlers, defraying by this means, the expenses of their wedding tour. Like his progenitors, Abraham, Pointed Cap was optimistic about the future. In an interview he expressed the hope that, though not as young as formerly he might yet be followed by offspring who in turn would become stalwarts like himself.

The OilPull Motor Demonstrates OilPull Quality

OilPull Quality—proved by the remarkable 11-year OilPull Record of Performance—is well demonstrated by the OilPull motor, the finest tractor motor in the world.

This is a broad statement—but it is amply borne out by the facts. The OilPull motor possesses more genuine quality in material and workmanship than many of the finest automobile engines. It is the type of tractor motor that has proved the most efficient and durable in public and private tests for the past 11 years—two cylinder, low speed, heavy duty, valve-in-head.

And these are the outstanding features of this OilPull motor—

- it is built complete in Advance-Rumely factories.
- it stands absolutely alone for fuel economy—especially built for oil fuels and guaranteed in writing to operate successfully on kerosene under all conditions.
- it follows automobile practice in machining—37 motor parts, including the cylinders, are ground to the thousandth part of an inch.
- its crankshaft is built to U. S. naval specifications.

Scissors—30,000 pounds tensile strength at against the usual 50,000 pounds.

- it is the only oil cooled tractor motor—unaffected by extremes of heat and cold.
- it is throttle governed—the speed of the engine automatically and instantaneously adjusted to meet changes in the load.
- the belt wheel runs directly off crankshaft—no intermediate gears—clutch operated from driver's seat.
- it employs a fresh oil system of combined force feed and splash—equipped with Madison-Kipp lubrication.
- it is equipped with a Bosch High Tension Magneto, the best and most expensive magneto made.
- all moving parts, including the governor, are ground.
- all parts are easy of access.

The OilPull is made in four sizes—15-20, 18-20, 20-40 and 30-40 H.P.—standard in design. They are oil cooled, oil burning and are backed by a written guarantee.

LETTERS to the EDITOR

WETS vs DRYS

The Mause

To the Editor:—

Sir, I welcome Mr. Walton's letter as I said the more letters we can get from the other side the better for our cause, now the old stunts is if you have no argument blackguard your opponent, and I will admit he has done it to perfection.

The start-off by saying my letter was "a public insult" no one else has said so, and it has taken even Mr. Walton nearly a fortnight to find it out.

I recognise this fact that he has been an apt student in the school of the "Wets," for he makes the orthodox attack by calling us "narrow-minded, intolerant etc." and that we reply on "silly sentiment in lectures, pamphlets, circulars etc." all of which I am sure must be rather obnoxious to his well-balanced, vigorous mind.

Of course Mr. Walton is not intolerant, it would be unfair to change a man who can write a letter with such choice adjectives as intolerant, and again a man that can marshal so many reasons why we should not vote "Dry" must be highly intelligent. He says that "legislation of this description" is stopping the importation of liquor from other provinces—"is pernicious and unjust and will do great material harm to this country" what a wonderful argument!

I went more than the Referendum calls for and believe I can prove that under Prohibition, the country stands to gain.

Sir, for seven years I was minister of a slum church. During that time I came into close grips with the coils of alcohol. I knew men, university graduates who held good position in life brought down through alcohol to poverty and degradation.

Let me mention one instance and that of one of the ablest solicitors in South Wales; and when I saw him last he was living in a common lodging house, his clothes torn and shabby.

I have seen mothers with children without a crust in the home because the husband and father had spent his earnings on drink.

I have known girls of tender years driven out into a life of prostitution that besotted parent might get money for drink.

These things have burned into my soul, and because I as a minister of the Gospel plead, in the name of Him who died to save the world, that we do our utmost to remove this gigantic evil will, I am actuated by malice intolerance and uncharitableness.

The greatest enemies to the cause of temperance reform are the men I take Mr. Walton to represent, the moderate drinker—so called—so narrow minded and selfish are they that rather than give up their nip of whiskey or glass of beer they are prepared, if need be, to see the world damned if only their appetite is gratified.

Now sir, I challenge Mr. Walton to meet me on any public platform and let him give his reasons why people should still retain the liberty that fills gas asylums and orphanages and I will give my side of the question and we will then have an opportunity to find out the "opinion of all intelligent people."
